

Wargaming with Pacific Partners

27 February - 01 March 2023

Ala Moana Hotel in Honolulu, Hawaii

Wargaming, and the broader category of Professional Gaming, is a tool that has generated a lot of interest within the US Department of Defense. Professional games allow for a wide range of challenges to be examined, in an environment where risk taking, and loss is possible. Games can build understanding of how adversary, partner, and own force decisions will interact across the strategic, operational, and tactical levels of conflict. The Pacific theater specifically is using gaming to examine everything from warfighting to logistics to strategic signaling. In order to provide a venue to discuss gaming in the Pacific, and to engage partners and allies over gaming, MORS will be holding a three-day special meeting on professional gaming and partnership in Honolulu Hawaii at the Ala Moana Hotel.

A Unique Opportunity to Present and Learn!

We are now accepting abstracts for the opportunity to present. In addition, proposals for games that can be conducted in an unclassified format are welcome.

Abstracts/proposals can be submitted via the MORS website here. Even if you are not presenting, this meeting will serve as an incredible learning experience lead by some of the best wargamers in the business. The main focus will be professional gaming (including wargaming) in the Pacific theater, more specifically, on gaming by, with, and for partners and allies in the region and will consist of several tracks covering gaming design, cyber or space gaming, and basic topics in the design and execution of professional games and will include lectures, discussions, and active wargames. Space is limited so don't delay!
